This weeks rotation was Sound. Although I'm inexperienced with sound but am aware it plays a large role in animation and how it can contribute to portraying a story.

This week we explored drawing outdoor and indoor sounds which was quite different for me it really makes you focus on your environment. For the following day we had to produce a 20 second clip of a transitional sound video that went from outdoor to indoor or indoor to outdoor.

For the end of week task we got asked to make 3X10 second videos focusing on sound that change in mood, tone and ambience. I had many different ideas for potential concepts despite it not being my favourite rotation since I can struggle with sounds since I never give it much thought.

I think the final product however was succesful and I kept it as creative as I could exploring and testing new sounds or everyday sounds you don't think of.
